For a two-month period elearningeuropa.info proposed that portal users send suggestions with regard to interesting e-learning resources. Thanks to the competition “My favourite e-learning resource” a series of specific initiatives of great added value (courses, webpages, educational resources, etc.) has been compiled, exemplifying the vitality of e-learning in Europe.

The winner of the competition is Jordi Jordan, from the secondary school IES Ronda in Lleida (Catalonia, Spain), for creating the website Gaudi and the technology. It is a complete introduction to Antoni Gaudi’s work and the technology used by the architect in the context of urban planning in Barcelona. The site has an attractive design, dozens of images, lots of information and several activities.
